STORM STRIKES IN OLA AREA

Teams Form For C. of C. Campaign on Next Tuesday

Annual Drive For Members Begins Tuesday Morning

CITY IS ASSIGNED

Six Teams to Make Canvass of All Local Business

The annual drive for memberships will be launched next Tuesday, November 25, by Hope Chamber of Commerce.

Plans were perfected at a meeting of the finance committee at the city hall Wednesday, with six teams assigned to cover the business district.

The campaign will begin at 9:30 Tuesday morning and will be closed as quickly as possible. Subscriptions obtained thus far by mail are for equal or larger amounts than in previous years, and next week's campaigns expect to turn in one of the largest total subscription pledges in recent years.

Finance Committee

Bob Huguennin was appointed chairman of the finance committee by President Ralph Rounton; and other members of the committee are: C. C. Spragins, M. M. Smyth and Alex. H. Washburn. The fifth member, C. W. Weltman, asked to be relieved on account of other civic duties, and his place will be filled with another appointment by the president.

Members of the committee will head several teams, securing his own team. Two others have also been appointed by the finance committee to head teams. They are, George W. Robinson and W. L. Lindsey.

Teams For Drive

The organization of teams and their division of territory Tuesday is as follows:

C. C. Spragins, Nick Jewell and Terrell Cornelius—West side of Elm street, and west.

George W. Robinson, John Cox and Robert Wilson—East side of Elm street, and east to the middle of cross-streets.

Bob Huguennin, Frank Ward and Parks Fisher—West side of Main street, and west to the middle of the cross-streets.

Alex. H. Washburn, Barney Ham and L. M. Boswell—East side of Main street, and east to the middle of the cross-streets.

W. H. Lindsey, J. A. Davis and Dewey Hendrix—Walnut street and east, and half-way west on the cross-streets.

M. M. Smyth, W. W. Duckett and Jim Henry—Local industries.

Scared Witness Puts End to Trial

St. Louis Grocer Repudiates Identification of Alleged Abductors

BELLEVILLE, Ill.—(AP)—Felonies charges against five St. Louis gangsters for the kidnaping for ransom of Sam Scarfina, wealthy St. Louis grocer, on July 12, last, were dismissed by the state in circuit court here Thursday after Scarfina repudiated his identification of the men. Scarfina was arrested on a perjury charge.

The state, after vainly trying to get Scarfina to identify his alleged abductors, nolle prossed the cases against the five, releasing two unconditionally, but holding the others on a technical robbery charge.

Frank Agrusa, repudiated head of the St. Louis Mafia, and Vito Impastato were released. Sora Mantia, Mike Lombardo and Baptista Bommarito were held.

Scarfina's failure to identify the men came as a complete surprise. State's Attorney Lindauer said that just before Scarfina was called as the first witness he had not changed his story told the Grand Jury that the five men were his kidnapers.

The state was seeking to send the five to the electric chair for the offense, a capital crime in Missouri.

Scarfina has feared for his life since he escaped from his kidnapers after being held four days at old farm near Ste. Genevieve, Mo. He has been under heavy police guard in his St. Louis home and was brought to court today in a bullet-proof police limousine from St. Louis, guarded by 14 St. Louis policemen, one armed with a machine gun.

Magnolia Student Is Leader in Farm Work

MAGNOLIA.—Winning first prize for three successive years in cotton raising in Hempstead county, Van Jones, senior in the high school department of Magnolia A. M. and M. is, is one of the leading 4-H club workers of Arkansas.

Police Disperse Rioting Students

After three days of rioting in the streets of Havana and other Cuban cities, during which three persons were killed and scores injured in clashes between police and anti-administration demonstrators, President Gerardo Machado suspended constitutional guarantees and placed the disturbed areas under martial law. This NEA Service-Hope Star photo shows how authorities went into action against the mobs of students and hoodlums who smashed street lights and store fronts in Havana. The demonstrations ceased almost immediately after issuance of the presidential decree.

Mortuary Murder Case to Be Retried

Case Tried Last June But the Jury Was Unable to Agree

TEXARKANA.—In the Texas side District Court at Boston Wednesday the trial of Lester Cooper, 22, charged with murder, was set for November 23. The case was tried once before, at the last June term of court, and resulted in a disagreed jury. All the jurors agreed that the defendant was guilty, two holding out for a suspended sentence while 10 contended for a prison term.

The charge grew out of the death of Paul Hunter, 23, who was shot to death at the East undertaking establishment in Texarkana last April. Both men were employed as helpers at the establishment, and up to the time of the tragedy had been roommates and good friends. The defense interposed a plea of temporary insanity, the defendant testifying that he had no recollection of the shooting. Other witnesses testified that Cooper was drunk.

Man Admits Killing His Two Brothers

BELLEVUE, Ky.—Breaking under police questioning Samuel Kelly, 47, Cincinnati, admitted to detectives here Thursday that he shot and killed Edward and John Gallagher, brothers, and seriously wounded Francis, another brother, as the climax of a quarrel in a shack on the outskirts of the city early Wednesday.

"They treated me rough," was Kelly's only explanation of the shooting. The Gallagher brothers lived together in the shack. Edward, 55, was a former city commissioner. John was 60. Francis, 45, wounded over the heart, refused to discuss the shooting until informed his brothers had been killed.

"Sammy Kelly did it," he said. He was unable to talk further.

Arizona Hiker Fears Wife Is Kidnaped in Missouri

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—(AP)—Charles J. Flynn, 34, a World War veteran and rancher of Yuma, Ari., Thursday asked police to help find his wife, who he said, disappeared from a restaurant here while he was hunting hotel accommodations. Restaurant employees said she left with two men and Flynn expressed fear she may have been kidnaped.

Flynn said his wife was Margaret B. Clark, 19, of Lynn, Mass., a pretty blonde, who he met romantically while attending the recent American Legion convention in Boston. Their marriage during the convention attracted considerable attention, he said, and then they started hitch-hiking to Yuma.

Business School Head Disappears From Little Rock

Ed Hill Vanishes—Receivership Suit Brought Wednesday

LOCAL UNIT QUITS

Warrant Issued For B. A. Looper, of the Hope Branch School

A receivership proceeding brought at Little Rock Wednesday against Edward Hill, president of Hill's Business College, Inc. in that city, is believed to involve three branch schools throughout the state—one of which, the school at Hope, has been discontinued.

Hill established the branch school in this city last spring, announcing that it was one of three branches, at Monticello, Fordyce and Hope, operating from the parent school at Little Rock.

Sale Announced

Although the local school got off apparently to an excellent start, it was reported in financial difficulties within a few months, and early in the summer Hill left it in charge of one of the teachers, B. A. Looper. Later he announced the sale of the school to Looper.

The troubles of the local school became more pronounced this fall, and the first of this month Looper left the city suddenly. The school closed, and Looper has not been heard from since.

Warrants have been sworn out here for Looper, charging him with obtaining money on a false pretense, it being alleged there are several students who paid the school's tuition fee without completing the business course. Although Looper is said to be at his former home in Kentucky, it is doubtful whether he will be brought back to Hope for trial. Inquiry has been made by Kentucky authorities as to whether a reward has been offered for his arrest, but no reward has been published here.

Hill Is Sought

LITTLE ROCK.—Disappearance of Edward Hill, president of Hill's Business College, Inc., 205 1-2 Louisiana street, was revealed Wednesday when a petition for a receiver for his property was filed in chancery court by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lois Hill.

Many complaints against Hill have been made to the prosecuting attorney's office during the past week, but efforts to locate the former business school head have been unsuccessful. He is said to have vanished about 10 days ago while his wife was visiting relatives at Magnolia.

When she returned to Little Rock and learned that he had gone, she began an investigation which resulted in the discovery of at least one other woman who said she was married to Hill. Prosecuting Attorney Boyd Cypert was advised. A Mrs. Hill at Hot Springs was quoted as having said she never had been divorced from the man wanted here.

"Approximately 30 students were enrolled in Hill's classes, and some have complained to authorities that they have paid tuition fees for courses they did not have an opportunity to complete. Hill was reported to have had salary difficulties with several instructors. He had operated the school six months, previously having been associated with a similar enterprise in the capacity of salesman. He was said to be about 40. He formerly lived at 1012 Cumberland street, the city directory shows. Before moving to Little Rock, he had lived in Hot Spring county, it was said.

Guests Register With Fingerprints

Jonesboro Provides Sleeping Quarters For Unemployed

JONESBORO.—(AP)—"Guests" register with fingerprints at Jonesboro's new "hotel" for the unemployed. It's the floor of the municipal court-room.

Itinerants mostly, the idle men are permitted to sleep on papers covering the floor. But they must leave their fingerprints.

On the first night, seven men used the "hotel."

Police say the plan was adopted on the theory it is better to give "drifters" a place to sleep under police supervision than to permit them to wander about the city facing the temptation of robbing.

Suicide Pact Blamed as Two Bodies Found

SHELBY, N. C.—(AP)—The bodies of Emmett Weaver, 30, and Mrs. Eulalie Dozier, 23, were found side by side in a wood near here Wednesday with bullet wounds in the heads, and authorities expressed the belief they died in a suicide pact.

A pistol was spied in Weaver's hand. He was married and the father of three children. Mrs. Dozier, the mother of two small boys, was estranged from her husband.

Two on Trial for Selling Judgeship

They're on trial in the most sensational of New York's current judicial scandals. Thomas T. Tamm, money, above, a former sheriff's clerk, and Martin J. Healy, below, district leader of the Tammany organization, here are shown as they smilingly appeared for the beginning of their hearing on the charge of selling former Magistrate George F. Ewald his place on the bench for $10,000.

Wreckage of Lost Plane Discovered

Woman Passenger Killed With Pilot and His Mechanic

BURBANK, Calif.—(AP)—Officials of Pacific Air Transport, whose night mail plane had been missing since Monday midnight with two men and a young woman aboard announced late Wednesday all three had been killed in the crash of the plane on a rolling hillside seven miles east of the Ridge Route highway in the Tehachapi mountains.

The company officials said searching aviators reported they had seen the bodies of the ill fated trio by flying low over the wrecked Boeing biplane. They added the ship's 315 pounds of mail was intact as the plane had not burned. The victims were Miss Jean Markow, 18, Los Angeles, lone passenger on the night flight; Elton F. A. Donaldson and Mechanic George Rogers.

The scene of the tragedy, slightly off the main plane's usual course, was eight miles beyond the northern rim of Antelope valley, into which Donaldson apparently had attempted to head for safety. Tejon airport, an emergency airfield, lies in the valley not far from where the plane crashed.

Unidentified Man Crushed By Train

Head Severed From Body Found on Tracks at Pine Bluff

PINE BLUFF.—The crushed body of an unidentified man was found on a switching track in the Cotont Belt yards here Thursday. The head had been severed by train wheels.

The victim apparently was about 55. He had thin, dark hair, blue eyes and weighed about 215 pounds. He was dressed in a new pair of overalls, a brown coat and blue shirt. No papers or identification marks were found in the clothing.

It is believed that the man fell from between two of a string of cars which had been switched over the track a few minutes before the body was found. The body is being held in a mortuary here.

Physician Admits He's Absent Minded

Reports Theft of Auto to Officers After He Had Parked It

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Dr. J. M. Campbell probably will admit he is a little absent minded.

He went out in front of his office to get his automobile. It wasn't there. He notified police. Then he and a friend drove all over town looking for the missing car.

Finally he returned to his office. Chief of Police Hines telephoned him his automobile was in front of the hospital where he had left it early in the day. Dr. Campbell had walked to his office from the hospital.

Wounded Gravely By Prohi Raiders Near Scene of Still

Miller County Youth Is In Critical Condition in Hospital

TO FILE CHARGES

Grand Jury to Investigate Shooting at the Next Session

TEXARKANA.—(AP)—Sam Day, aged 15, was shot and wounded critically Wednesday morning by federal prohibition agents, who alleged that he attempted to shoot them when they approached a still near Boyd, six miles east of here.

The agents, Jesse M. Quillin and W. N. Weaver, then, after shooting Day they found a 200-gallon capacity still, 30 gallons of whiskey and 600 gallons of mash near the place where Day is alleged to have attempted to fire at them. The officers said that Day drew a pistol when they approached, but the agents fired first.

The Miller county grand jury, convening next Monday, will investigate the shooting, according to a statement by J. D. Cook, deputy prosecuting attorney. Cook took a statement from young Day at a hospital early Thursday.

W. M. Day, father of the youth, charged that the youth was shot after being chased for a half a mile by the raiding officers.

S. M. Gurley, of Fort Smith, prohibition officer for the Western district of Arkansas is in this city investigating the case also.

$115,000 Is Taken In Bank Robbery

Officers Advised of Robbery By Cashier Early Thursday

BERRY, Ala.—(AP)—Berry authorities were advised by Phillip Shepherd that the bank of Berry had been robbed of approximately $100,000 in negotiable bonds and $15,000 in cash Wednesday night.

The robbers gained entrance to the building by breaking a window in the rear. Acetylene torches were used to open the safety boxes in the building. The robbers overlooked valuable papers belonging to the bank in one of these boxes. A torch was also used to cut through the vault. Papers of no value were discarded.

Fayette county officers as well as the police from Berry began an immediate search for trace of the robbers.

The loss in bonds is born by 35 or 40 of the bank's customers.

J. C. Shepherd, is the president of the bank which is capitalized at $50,000. Mr. Shepherd issued a statement early Thursday that the customers of the bank would not suffer any loss.

Berry is a small town, having a population of approximately 800 persons.

Adventureous Trio Returned to Ohio

Youths Seek Gun Fighting Jobs in Texas; Are Disappointed

TEXARKANA, Tex.—(AP)—The Texarkana market for two-gun fighters, like the old gray mare, "ain't what she used to be."

That was the added opinion of three young men, whose 1,000 mile jaunt in an antiquated flivver failed to turn up a cowboy or a "bad hombre" between Dayton, O., and Texarkana.

The three adventure seekers—Guy Antrim, Courtney Grover, Jr., and Everett Smith, aged 14—arrived here ready to trade their car in favor of a good broncho.

Then, if anyone needed a trio of gun-totin' cow hands, their services were to be had for the asking.

But Texarkana's paved streets and metropolitan atmosphere didn't fit in with the scheme of their envisioned "wild west." Texarkana police were looking for them as well, after their alarmed parents had sent out an appeal to return any unaccompanied "bad men" to Dayton.

"Aw, gee, captain, this can't be Texas," one said to an officer. "All the streets are paved and nobody's wearing a gun."

They went back to Dayton in company with an Ohio detective.

Wife trying on hats? Do you like this turned down, dear? Hubby—How much it is? Wife—Fifteen dollars. Hubby—Yes, turn it down.

Duuggist and City Recorder of Town Killed

Bulletins

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—Nelson C. Bowles, 34, retired capitalist, and Mrs. Irene Paris, 25, Bowles' former secretary, were arrested Thursday, charged with the murder of Mrs. Leona Bowles, 27, wife of Bowles and popular society matron.

FORT SMITH.—(AP)—A pledge to raise $138,650 during next year to finance the work was made by the Arkansas Baptist Convention here Thursday. The convention deferred action on the request of three Arkansas schools who asked for money to operate another year. These schools were Ouachita College, Mountain Home, and Jonesboro.

Kiwanis Farewell to Rev. F. A. Buddin

Kiwanis paid final tribute to the Rev. Francis A. Buddin at their regular noon meeting at the Barlow hotel Thursday. The Rev. Mr. Buddin, one of the most active and valuable members of the civic club, leaves for his new home in Texarkana Thursday.

John F. Cox told how it had been evident immediately upon his coming to Hope, that the Rev. Mr. Buddin was destined to promotion in time to come. In two short years he has been transferred by the Methodist conference, to the neighboring city of Texarkana, and to a larger congregation.

The Rev. Geo. F. Strasser also made a farewell speech to the departing Kiwanian, pointing out that he had always taken an active part in Kiwanis club, that he had always served when called upon, that he was regular in his attendance, and had brought many good programs to the club. But, more important still, said the Rev. Mr. Strasser, was his spirit of fellowship and good will, so that he had come to be loved by the membership.

The club tendered the Rev. Mr. Buddin their best wishes to him in his new field of endeavor.

A resolution was passed by the club expressing confidence in the men who are managing the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. "We, the members of the Kiwanis Club," the resolution read, "wish to go on record as expressing our fullest confidence in the integrity, the business ability and the soundness of the men who are actively managing the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. in this time of disturbance, through no fault of its own. We see every reason to bear with them, and no cause for alarm for any of the depositors, regardless of whether plans can be completed for its immediate opening."

no constitution has ever been able to provide.—Col. R. R. McCormick.

The Star's Platform

CITY

Apply the revenues of the municipal power plant to develop the industrial and social resources of Hope.
More city pavement in 1931, and improved sanitary conditions in the alleys and business back-ends.
Support the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a minimum amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the dirt road mileage.
Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county greatest interests.
Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative efforts are practical in the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.
Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.
Free Arkansas from the cattle tick.

Lift the Quarantine

AN announcement by the Department of Agriculture tells us that on the first of December the cattle tick quarantine will be lifted from five Arkansas counties.

On that date the federal government will formally release Clark, Hot Spring, Miller and Pike counties, and the quarantined portion of Howard.

This should remind us that a distressing situation still exists in the two southern tiers of Arkansas counties. If you will draw a line across the top of Hempstead county east to the Mississippi river you have defined the 15-county territory in Arkansas which is still tick-infested and in which cattle must be so rigidly inspected that it is impracticable to make any commercial shipments.

We feel the handicap keenly, especially in a drouth year, because livestock cannot even be moved to winter feeding grounds beyond our quarantined area without first being transported to Little Rock to stand tick inspection—the cost of which is prohibitive.

Hope and Hempstead county, which played such an important part in attempting to get the legislature to reconsider a tick eradication appropriation after the close of the last session, in March, 1929, ought to act early this time.

The interests of Hope, Camden, Magnolia, El Dorado, Warren, Monticello and other southern points are the same where tick eradication is concerned. South state towns and their county representatives ought to organize thoroughly in advance of the 1931 session, and make sure that the complete tick eradication campaign is provided for by the next legislature.

"Good Licks" For Prosperity

THE 1931 motor announcements which are now being published by the newspapers and national magazines furnish some beautiful pictures that the public eye is bound to gaze longingly on, before turning to the next page.

Check up on this and see if we aren't right—the automobile manufacturers have come out with distinctive new styles that make this year's "brand new" car look a trifle out of date. It isn't really, and we know it isn't; but how we will feel about it next spring is another matter. Perfectly good six-cylinder models have been replaced with a different body and an eight-cylinder engine. We sniff at the new model now.
But we'll probably "trade" by spring.

This is a striking illustration of one of the most powerful factors in the maintenance of American prosperity—our ingenuity in creating and advertising new needs of everyday life. We firmly believe that the automobile manufacturers, with their radical changes in style and motors, are contributing their bit to business revival for 1931.

Another factor appears in the current issue of Editor &
Publisher (New York), the newspaper man's trade journal.
It is an advertisement of the New York Herald Tribune. The Herald Tribune is telling what has happened among the New York department stores this year (you probably haven't realized it, but 1930 is pretty nearly history now.) The Herald Tribune says:

"During the first nine months of this year, New York City department stores sold as much merchandise as a year ago. . . . Dollar value, according to reports of eleven New York City stores to the Federal Reserve Board. With the lower prices on many lines, that means an even larger number of articles than a year ago. It is a real achievement. It was brought about by reducing prices and increasing sales effort. . . . New York department stores placed over eight hundred thousand more lines of advertising in the New York newspapers, first ten months of 1930 compared with the same period last year. By maintaining their level of business, the stores have done much to keep the wheels of industry and transportation turning; to create a demand for the goods which provide your family's livelihood."

There are some communities over the United States where the same concerted effort has been made to keep up local business. From all we can learn, and from the reports of traveling men who are in and out of here constantly, Hope is one of those cities. Advertising has been good this fall. And business has been better, generally speaking, here than anywhere else in this section.

Our Oil Foundation

WE think of oil nowadays mainly as the source of gasoline.
It is far more than that. E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute points out that our whole present-day industrial life rests upon petroleum in some form.

"Petroleum is the source of power and lubrication for the motor car, truck and bus, for the stationary internal combustion engine and the moving locomotive and tractor, for the ships which fly in the air and sail the seven seas."

Fuel for gas engines may be obtained from other sources, particularly coal. So may lubricating oil. But it is doubtful whether any other raw material for lubricating will ever be found so good as petroleum. For this purpose alone—to keep our industrial machinery running smoothly—it would be imperative to make our crude oil supply last as long as possible.—Paragould Press.

La-a-dies and Gentlemen! It's the Headliner of the Season

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Along with the Democrats and the wets, organized labor and the candidates it endorsed came out on top of the heap in the congressional elections.

Senators and representatives whom the labor organizations considered inimical to them were driven out in large numbers during the nominating primaries, while labor's friends were nominated and retained. The same tendency continued in the election.

Among outstanding defeats of candidates who had formal labor support were those of Senator Mc-Master in South Dakota, Senator Robison in Kentucky and former Senator Gerry of Rhode Island.
All had been supported on the strength of their senatorial records, but the defeat of McMaster, and Robison appears to have been attributable to the Democratic landslide and labor leaders believe their successors are likely to prove as acceptable as the incumbents. None had been among labor's foremost champions. On the other hand, labor spokesmen point to the election of nearly a score senatorial candidates who had labor support and to the retirement or primary or election defeat of as many who could be depended upon to have little sympathy for legislation which labor supports.

Labor supplied the extra push which has terminated the senatorial career of Henry J. Allen of Kansas, President Hoover's close friend and senatorial adviser, who will be succeeded by a Democrat named George J. McGill. Allen fathered the famous Kansas Industrial Court, which labor hated and bitterly fought. Another of labor's pet hates was ex-Senator William M. Butler, who lost to Marquis A. Coolidge in Massachusetts.

The American Federation of Labor makes no general list of its endorsed candidates, leaving endorsements to state federations and locals, but the executives of the 21 Standard Railway organizations unanimously called for the election of 19 senatorial candidates, nine Republicans and 10 Democrats.
At the top of the list stood Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee has been helpful and sympathetic to such labor-sponsored measures as the anti-injunction legislation as well as to other progressive and humanitarian measures. Norris defeated his Democratic opponent, former Senator Hitchcock, by a large majority.
The others who won out were Senator Sheppard in Texas, Senator Borah in Idaho, Edward P.
Costigan in Colorado, Senator Couzens in Michigan, Secretary of Labor Davis in Pennsylvania,
Governor Huey P. Long in Lou-

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to sorious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsion of cod liver oil, which is taken creosote that is pleasurable to take.
Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

All are architects of Fate,
Working in these walls of Time,
Some with massive deeds and great,
Some with ornaments of rhyme.

Nothing useless is, or low;
Each in its place is best;
And what seems but idle show,
Strengthens and supports the rest.

For the structure that we raise,
Time is with materials joined;
Our to-days and yesterday
Are the blocks with which we build.

Build today then, strong and sure,
With a firm and ample base;
And ascending and secure

The Bay View Reading club held an interesting meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gus Haynes on South Pine street. The president presided over a short business session, members responded to the roll call with items about the State of Oregon, the study subject for the afternoon. The leader, Mrs. R. M. LaGrone then presented a very instructive program on this state. Mrs. LaGrone gave the history and geography, with interesting comments on the natural beauties and resources of Oregon. Little Miss Reba May of Washington delighted the club with two readings. The House by the Side of the Road and "Wrong Number." Dr. Etta Champlin gave a description of the wonderful Crater lake. Mrs. J. T. Hicks told about the mining and fishing industries of Oregon. Miss Mammie Twitchell read a paper on the education and religion and Mrs. Arch Moore told about the government and politics of the state. Following the program, Miss Beryl Henry conducted a rhyme and guessing contest, which afforded much amusement. Mrs. O. A. Graves, Miss Beryl Henry, Mrs. B. F. LITTLE ROCK.—An audit of records of Sheriff and Collector Roy Hooper of Sevier county, made public Monday by State Comptroller Howard Reed, showed that that official is short approximately $14,000 in his settlement with the state for taxes collected this year against the 1929 assessment.
The county records show a gross shortage of $24,000, but it was said that the state has given the official credit for about $11,231, lost in bank failures at Floratio and Lockesburg, and will attempt to recover that amount when the banks are liquidated. make settlement with the state, was paid by bondsmen before the audit was made it was said.

Included in the alleged shortage is $1,234 from fines and licenses. The remaining $13,203 represented general tax collections. Any penalties for failure to settle on time and collection of delinquent personal taxes since the audit was completed will be added to the amount due the state by Sheriff Hooper it was said. He settled with the county in full within time provided by law.

The accountants who made the audit said duplicate tax receipts kept by the collector were of little value in checking the records. They recommended that sheriff and collector-elect install a new system of keeping tax collection records and that he maintain separate accounts for taxes, auto licenses, fines and forfeitures and for miscellaneous fees. It was said that the sheriff and other officers had failed to settle quarterly for fines and fees as required by statute.

The County Court contained nothing to indicate financial transactions involved in the issuance and sale of bonds and the building of a new courthouse and jail, it was said. On recommendation of the accountants, the county judge directed his attorney to prepare a complete record of all transactions of the County Court.

The county and circuit judges of Sevier county were furnished copies of the audit. The Sevier county Grand Jury is scheduled to meet Thursday and reports from DeQueen said the comptroller's audit will be made the basis of an investigation of the collectors' accounts by that body.

was the report that they had seen a camp fire burning about four miles distant on the Frazier mountain.

At this report twenty planes set out from nearby airports to comb the territory west of the Frazier mountain country. Automobiles and horse-back riders also started to the scene.

If the fire was made by the three missing persons, it is the belief that the plane landed safely and the three have started walking westward to the highway.

Vice President Prevents His Daughter-in-Law's Eviction From Flat

CHICAGO.—When Mrs. Harry K. Curtis, 180 East Delaware Place, was faced with the problem of raising $800 immediately or being evicted from her flat, she took the matter to the vice president of the United States and got immediate results.

Mrs. Curtis' husband is a lawyer and the son of Vice President Charles Curtis. Harry Curtis was on his way here from Washington when a court bailiff and four men visited her flat and threatened to move the furniture into the street if $887 back rent were not paid at once.

Mrs. Curtis protested that her husband merely had forgotten to pay the rent and would pay it just as soon as he returned. The bailiff, however, refused to wait, so Mrs. Curtis telephoned her father-in-law and $900 enough to avoid eviction until the younger Curtis arrives, was telegraphed to her at once.

Science, Plus Fight

THIS year has seen some remarkable comebacks. Tigerdogg in football, its surprising upsets, have surpassed what was expected of them and the mighty have taken a tumble.

One of the most heroic examples is Columbia. In her game with Cornell, the guessing was, not as to the victor, but the score. The rosiest hopes of Columbia's supporters asked merely that the disaster be minimized by as few touchdowns as possible under the circumstances.

Columbia beat Cornell. In doing so the Lions played a game of football that was scientifically designed to offset the style of game the Ithacans have adopted. It was a laboratory triumph, in a way.

When Cornell assumed the double-wing-back formation, Columbia tackled plunged head on into the Cornell ends. When Cornell played single wing-back, Columbia overshifted, gambling that the end and secondary man on the weak side of the line could stop any swing to the short side. No such swing was expected, because unusual speed is required to gain by such a move.

And Another
COLUMBIA had the clinically perfect defense for Cornell. But there was another factor in the Lions' victory that no great triumph lacks—the element of fight that Lou Little's men displayed. It required courage and persistence to rally in the face of what was predicted as defeat, and it took faith to follow the plans adopted.

Columbia fought like a tiger. The plan they used called for the most exacting efforts by linemen and secondary. The team never faltered.

You might debate for hours on the relative importance of the two factors that won for Columbia—science or fight. The answer seems to be that in modern football you can't get anywhere without a little of both.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

TWENTY-FIVE years ago a young man went to New York seeking employment... the city was big but the boy was young and he had $4... he wandered along the city's streets, watching its people... one of his favorite amusements was a long walk on Sunday... often he ambled from Bowling Green to the Bronx... he used to watch the ball games in Central Park, and sometimes he would play... once he collected 60 street urchins and organized a Sunday school class... he worked at this job and that... he knew how to paint a little, and he spent hours in the museums... once he took a job painting a huge sign on Broadway, depicting a nice fat cigar... but the call of the middle-west finally proved too strong... he is coach at the University of Illinois now... Bob Zuppke.

The Noble Rally

THE year has seen other triumphs of the underdog. Navy made a splendid rally after a bad start and defeated Princeton. New York University took Fordham's lusty wallop on the chin and went right away from there and defeated Carnegie Tech, one of the strongest teams in the east. Duke was disastrously routed by North Carolina State, and came back to win five straight games, beating among others Navy and Villanova. After being nosed out by Michigan after victory seemed to be well in hand, Purdue took Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois in its stride. Northwestern took a fall out of Tulane, but the New Orleans team snapped out of it to win four in a row, from its next rivals. Add to your list of other comebacks Iowa and Nebraska.

Coaches, aided by scouts, devised many of these reversals. Careful laboratory planning had a great deal to do with the upsets. But a beaten team must fight to rally. The best laid plans of mice and men must be executed with faith and fight to win. There is something more to this "dying for dear old Rutgers" than mere talk.

Church Recognizes Miracles of Fatima

LISBON—(U.P.)—The miracles attributed to Our Lady of Fatima, which extra-officially have been recognized by the church since 1917, were recently definitely declared to be "worthy of credence" by the Bishop of Leiria, Dom Jose Alves Correia da Silva.

It is understood that the bishop's pronouncement was made after consultation with the Vatican.

The veneration of Our Lady of Fatima has increased greatly in the past few years, and some devotees refer to it as "the Portuguese Lourdes." It began in 1917, when it is said the image of the Virgin Mary appeared before three shepherd boys. Since then, on the 13th of every month, but more particularly on May 13 and October 13, pilgrims go to the shrine of the Virgin in the Cave of Iria, in the town of Fatima to implore divine aid to cure physical and moral defects.

Deputies Shun New Fangled Machine

French Chamber to Retain Old Method of Casting Ballots

PARIS—(U.P.)—The Rules Committee of the Chamber of Deputies decided today that it would never report on the proposition to equip the Chamber with an electrical balloting machine which would abolish the nose and count of voting by Grecoan urns. The committee decided such a modernization would take all the fun out of voting. A ticket "died in committee" was placed on the project. The electrical machine was demonstrated last spring when the chamber was in session. The suspicious deputies, fearing with the machine and its ability to ring in their vote without delay became suspicious of the suggestion that they vote in a manner.

After the founding of the Third Republic the deputies have always voted by hand, placing their ballots in one of a half-dozen small urns which were placed about the room by attendants. The head of any group can vote for his absentee colleagues, often one deputy placing as many as 12 or 15 votes in the urn.

Ten minutes is ordinarily required to count the ballots if the vote is not close, a staff of ushers calling out the "yesses" and "noes" to a checking staff. If the vote is close and there is a question of the government falling, a "pointage" is declared. This consists in checking off the votes by names, one by one, to check if there are any extra slips, which is generally the case.

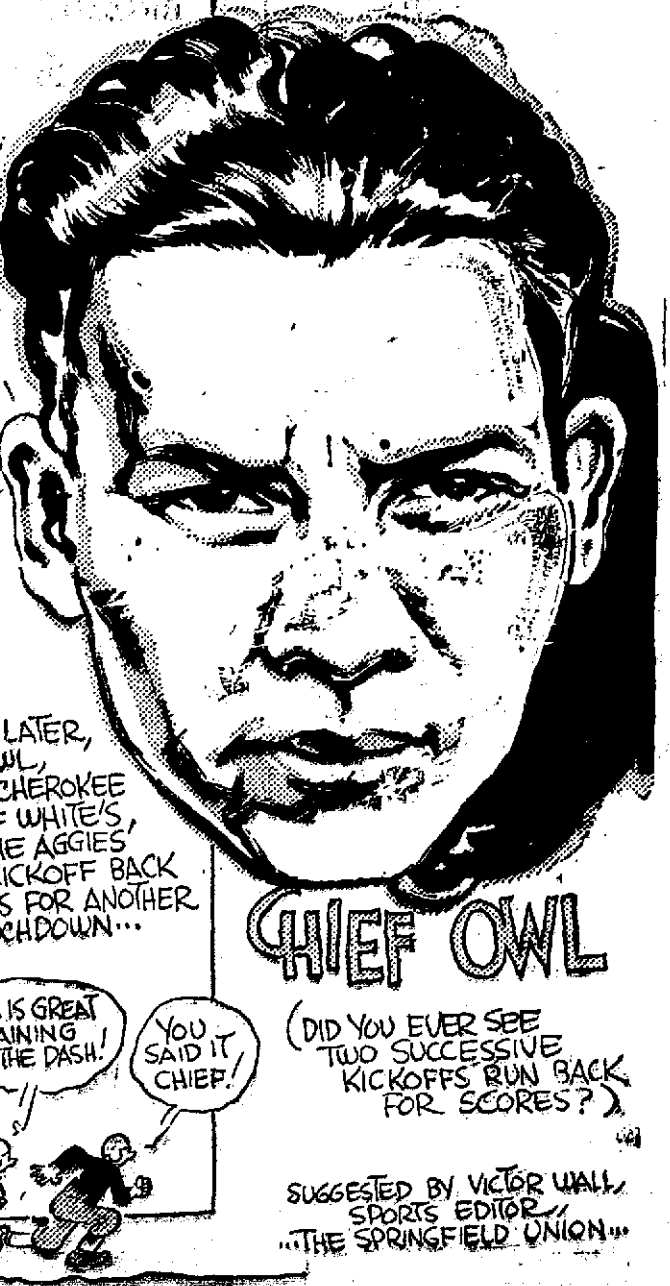

During this checking the Chamber is in an uproar, the opposition parties cheering and yelling that the government has fallen, while the government supporters sit grimly awaiting the result of the recount. If the government fails to secure a majority it is the custom that the Premier, if he has posed the question of confidence, announce the collective resignation of his Cabinet.

During the summer recess of the chamber the vacationing deputies declared themselves hostile to the modernization of their time-honored system. By the electric system each deputy's desk would be equipped with a small red and black button, bearing the words "oui" and "non" (yes and no). The deputy would register his vote by merely pressing on the button.

Keeping... the DINNER PAILS FILLED

MANY workers and much machinery and equipment are required to build a single mile of pipe line, and innumerable miles of pipe are required to transport Natural Gas from the source of supply to the homes of a hundred communities.

Constant maintenance is necessary. But in addition to this, Your Gas Company has continued all through the present year to expand its operations in preparation for the inevitable growth of the territory served.

Much of this work could have been postponed, but it has been — and it will ever be — the policy of this company to look to the future rather than to be deterred by temporary conditions.

As a result of the expansion now in progress or just completed, thirty more communities will have Natural Gas along with many additional homes in cities already served by this company.

Dundee learns from Penny the story of her father's unfortunate attempt to start a subdivision in Primrose Meadows. Addition, his failure, and subsequent flight. The house he had built is now owned by Nita from JUDGE MATT SHALL. Dundee drives Penny out to the luncheon, curious to meet the "lovely Nita." When he meets her, she flirtatiously asks him for a cocktail after bridge, but is frightened on hearing he is a detective. Dundee is interrupted in his work late that afternoon at the office by Penny on the telephone, who informs him that Nita Selim has been murdered at bridge.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

AS Special Investigator Dundee drove through the city of Hamilton at a speed of 60 miles an hour, his way being cleared by traffic policemen warned by the shrill official siren which served him as a horn, he had little time to think connectedly of the fact that Nita Selim had been murdered during a bridge game in her rented home in Primrose Meadows.

Even after the broad sleekness of Sheridan Road stretched before him he could do little more than try to realize the shock which had numbed him. . . . "Lovely Nita," as the society editor of The Morning News had called her, was—dead! How, why, he did not know. He had asked no details of Penny Crain. . . . Funny, thorny little Penny!

"Judge Marshall has telephoned police headquarters," she had told him breathlessly over the telephone, "but I made him let me call you as soon as he had hung up. I wanted our office to be in on this right from the first."

Beautiful, seductive Nita Selim, almost cuddling under his arm, within three minutes of meeting him—dead! A vision of her black eyes, so wide and luminous and wilful as they had looked sideways and upward to his, pleading for him to join her after-bridge cocktail party, nearly made him crash into a lumbering furniture van. These eyes were luminous no longer, could never again snap the padlocks of slave chains upon any man—as Penny had expressed it. . . . Dead! And she had been so warmly alive, even as she had retreated from him at his mention of the fact that he was attached to the office of the district attorney as a special investigator.

What had she feared then? Was her death a payment for some recent or long-standing crime? Or was she simply withdrawing from the contamination of a "flat-foot"? No! She had been afraid—horribly afraid of some ulterior purpose behind his innocent courtesy in driving Penelope Crain to Breakaway Inn.

Well, speculation now was idle. He speeded again, but was soon forced to stop and ask his way into Primrose Meadows. The vague directions of a farmer's overalls soon lost him nearly eight precious minutes, during which his friend, Captain Strawn of the homicide squad, might be bungling things rather badly. But at last he found the ornate pair of pillars spanned by the painted legend, "Primrose Meadows," and drove through them into what soon became a rutted lane. Almost a quarter of a mile from the entrance he found the isolated house, unmistakable because of the lineup of private cars parked before the short stretch of paved sidewalk, and the added presence of grim-looking police cars and motorcycles.

"Funny thing, too," Strawn commented. "Nobody heard a shot."

SO Captain Strawn was out in full force! Dundee turned his own car into the driveway leading from the street along the right side of the house toward the two-car garage in the rear.

As he was descending, Captain Strawn's voice hailed him from an open window of the room nearest the garage.

"Hello, Dundee! Been expecting you. . . . Damned business you ever saw. . . . There's a door from this room out the porch. Hop up and come on in."

Dundee obeyed. In driving in he had noted that a wide porch, upheld by round white pillars, stretched across the front of the gabled brick house and extended half way along its right side, past a room which was obviously a solarium, with its continuous windows, gay awnings, and—visible through the glittering panes—orange-and-tan wicker furniture.

It was easy to swing himself up to the floor of the porch. Strawn flung open the door which led into the back room, remarking with a grin:

"Don't be afraid I'm gumming up any fingerprints. Carraway has already been over the room. . . . The Selim woman's bedroom," he explained. "The room she was killed in."

"You have been on the job," Dundee complimented his former chief, and shook hands heartily. It was very necessary that a well-grounded friendship should not be marred by any undue officiousness on the part of the district attorney's special investigator.

Dundee advanced into the room. Although Mrs. Selim had taken the house furnished, it was obvious that this big bedroom of hers was not exactly as the Crain family had left it. A little too pretty, a little too aggressively feminine, with its choice lounge heaped with silk and lace pillows, its superfluity of big and little lamps, its bed draped with golden-yellow taffeta, its dressing table—

But he could not let critical eyes linger on the triple-mirrored vanity dress. Her on the bench before it sat a tiny figure, the head bowed so low upon the lace-and-gold-silk covered top that some of the black curls had fallen into a large open bowl of powder. She was no longer wearing the short brown silk coat whose open front had given him a glimpse of pale yellow chignon.

HE saw the dress now, a low-cut, sleeveless, fluffy affair, but he really had eyes only for the brown-fish-red hole on the left side of the back of the bodice, about halfway between shoulder and waist—a waist so small he could have spanned it with his two hands, including its band of fuchsia velvet ribbon. There also had been a bow of fuchsia velvet ribbon on the lace and straw hat she had swung so charmingly less than five hours ago. . . .

"Shot through the heart, I guess," Strawn commented. "Took a good marksman to find her heart, shooting her through the back. . . . Funny thing, too. Nobody heard a shot—leastways none of that crowd penned up in the living room will admit they did. They'll all hang together, and lie like sixty to keep us from finding out anything that might point to one of their precious bunch. But if a gun with a Maxim silencer was used, as it must have been if that whole crew ain't lying, the gunman must have been good, because you can't sight with a Maxim screwed onto a rod, you know."

"Have your men found the gun?" Dundee asked.

"Of course not, or I'd know whether it had a Maxim on it or not," Strawn retorted. "My theory is," he added impressively, "that somebody with a grudge against this dame hired a gunman to hang around 'till he got her dead to rights, then—plot!" and he imitated the soft, thudding sound made by the discharge of a bullet from a gun equipped with a silencer.

"Doesn't it seem rather strange that a professional gunman should have chosen such a time—with men arriving in cars, and the house full of women who might wander into this room at any minute—to bump or his victim?" Dundee asked.

"Well, there ain't no other explanation," Captain Strawn continued, flushing. "Outside of the fact that my men have gone over the whole house and grounds without finding the gun, I've got other evidence it was an outside job. . . . Look!"

Dundee followed the chief of the homicide squad to one of the two windows that looked out upon the driveway. Both were open, since the May day was exceptionally warm, even for the Middle West. The window from which he obediently leaned was almost directly in line with the vanity dressing table across the room.

"LOOK! See how them vines have been torn," Strawn directed, pointing to a rambling rose which hugged the outside frame of the window. "And look hard enough at the flower bed down below and you'll see big footprints. . . . Of course we've measured them and Cain, as you see, is guarding them. 'Till my man comes to make plaster casts of them. . . . Yes, sir, he hoisted himself up to the window ledge, aimed as best he could, then slipped down and beat it across the meadow."

"Then," Dundee began slowly, "I wonder why Mrs. Selim didn't see that figure crouched in the window, since she must have been powdering her face and looking into the middle of the three mirrors—the one which reflects this very window?"

"How do you know she was powdering her face, not looking for something in a drawer?" Strawn demanded truculently.

"For three reasons," Dundee answered almost apologetically. "First: her powder-puff, as I'm sure, you noticed, is still clutched in her right hand; second, there is no drawer open, and no drawer near open, unless someone has closed it since the murder, whereas on the other hand her powder box is open; third, the left side of her face is heavily and unevenly coated with powder, while the other is heavily but evenly powdered. Therefore I can't see why she didn't scream, or turn around when she heard your gunman clambering up to her window, or even when he had crouched in it. I don't see how she could help seeing him!"

"Well—what do you think?" Strawn asked sourly, after he had tested the visibility of the window from the dressing table mirror. (To Be Continued)

County Produces Large Potato Crop

Patmos Man Brings in 23 Pounds Grown From One Potato Vine

The sweet potato crop in Hempstead county has been exceptionally good this season, despite the many hardships the growing crop had to overcome.

Practically every farmer who really tried has enough or nearly enough potatoes to supply the needs of his family throughout the winter months with possibly a surplus for sale. Last week Mr. D. E. (Daimedie) House, of Patmos, route two brought to this office a sack containing ten sweet potatoes, which he dug from one hill. The total weight of these ten potatoes was 23 pounds, the largest of the lot weighing eleven pounds.

Many other farmers had equally as good yield. One man reported having harvested 230 bushels from an acre. A great many of the growers over the country either have their own curing houses or are interested in a community curing plant. Others use the old time method of banking the potatoes in small potato houses, in straw corn stalks or dry sand. This latter method is alright some years but the former way of drying the potatoes has proven to be the most satisfactory in late years.

Many Study Child Health With Hoover

Conference at White House Reveals Much Research

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The children of the nation, their health, education, social condition, received attention of some of the country's leading experts today as the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection got under way. The conference is expected to consider means to improve child health.

Thousands of words of recommendation were heard as to how best to better the child's condition generally and make the more useful citizen were submitted to the conference, meeting for the first time since its organization was announced by President Hoover.

Recommendations ranged from recommendations for more "family" movie projection, to a proposal to establish a 44-hour week for minor workers.

The radio figured prominently when Dr. West, Boy Scout head and committee member, asked that adequate provision be made to guarantee a place for educational broadcasting as a youth influence.

Dr. Davis of the Chicago Board of Education, chairman of the committee on Vocational Guidance and Child Development, urged that more attention be given to the problem of adult unemployment, and that a "decent standard of living" be guaranteed for the "children." Her committee recommended the 44-hour week for women and the extension of state child labor laws so that their children remain in school "at least up to the age of 16."

A study of "farm economies" was made by Miss Davis in an effort to find a solution for the problem of the "children in agriculture," who for the most part had to work the farms.

Medical treatment and social, academic and vocational training for physically and mentally handicapped children to enable them to carry "wholly or in part their own social and economic weight" was recommended.

Admitting that this would require "a high degree of cooperative effort on the part of the medical profession, social and health workers, educational authorities and employers," the committee asked provision for:

- 1—Early discovery and diagnosis.
- 2—Curative and remedial diagnosis.
- 3—Social contacts.
- 4—A differentiation of education with "vocational" as an important aim.
- 5—A service of educational and vocational guidance.
- 6—Prevocational training.
- 7—Vocational training.
- 8—Placement in employment.
- 9—Follow-up in employment.

Infereased to determine the amount and type of training for the preschool child to develop a younger health in mind and body was recommended. As for the school child, the committee found there are "certain unsolved problems in the field of health as related to the schools" and recommended research.

Another committee found that nearly 3,000,000 cases of communicable diseases, about one-half of which occur in children, are reported annually.

From 50 to 75 per cent of the country's crippled children owe their condition to infantile paralysis and tuberculosis, the report said.

The committee on dependency recommended "that children should not be removed from their homes for reasons of poverty alone and that legislation establishing systems of home relief and child care be revised to accord with this principle."

France Is Puzzled By Wish of Hero

Heroic Defender Asks to Be Buried Among the French Soldiers

PARIS—(UP)—The wish of Marshal Petain, heroic defender of Verdun, that upon his death he be buried among the half-million French soldiers, sacrificed in repeated repulses of German attacks and now lie in battlefield cemeteries there, may prove difficult.

The government has pointed out that a special decree would be necessary before Petain could be buried among his men. By law, there have been no burials in the battlefield cemeteries since October 1919.

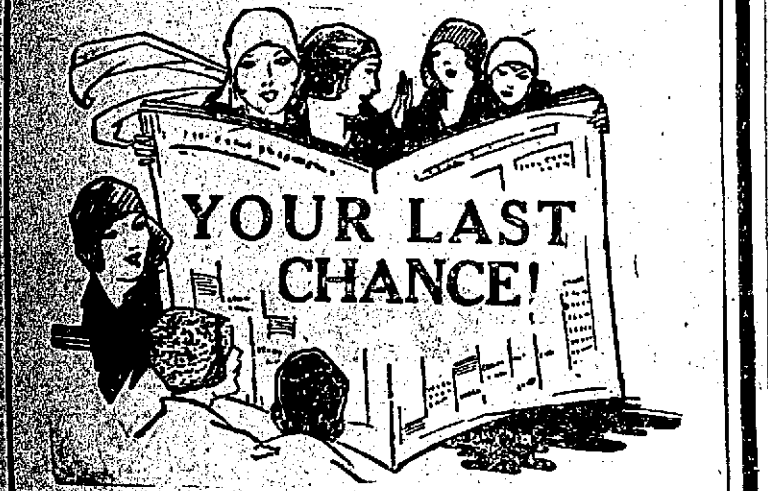

The law stated specifically that only soldiers who died in the service between August 2, 1914, and October 24, 1919, could be buried in the army cemeteries.

It was pointed out at the Ministry of Pensions today, that an exception may be made in the case of Marshal Petain, however, the war broke out. By June, 1915, he and Army, and in February 1916 drives on Verdun, Petain was sent to organize the defense. A vigorous leader, Petain soon turned a hopeless situation into a routing victory.
